Athens, An Innovative City

In 2018, Athens was crowned the European Capital of Innovation by the European Commission. This is an annual prize awarded to the European city that has demonstrated the ability to harness innovation to improve the lives of its citizens. By prioritising innovation, the City of Athens has helped the local community bring about change and open up to the world. Some of the city innovations include:

- The POLIS² project to revitalise abandoned buildings through small grants to residents, small enterprises, creative communities and other civil society groups, bringing life to all corners of Athens.
- The renovation of the Kypseli Public Market, a 90-year old historical building, with active support of Athens' citizens aspires to create a new social entrepreneurship market hosting exhibitions, workshops, theatre shows and other initiatives.
- Transforming the Serafio Complex into a popular community playground and novel events space, hosting enterprises like the Athens Digital Lab, the Open Schools initiative and the Athens Makerspace following a joint decision by the municipality and the local community.
- The Curing the Limbo initiative gives refugees and migrants the possibility to connect with other residents in order to learn the language, develop new skills, find employment opportunities, and engage in active citizenship.
- The Digital Council unites companies and educational institutions to offer training on digital literacy and civic technology, as well as flagging sustainable innovations like smart recycling bins.
- The 'This is Athens' campaign invited local volunteers to talk about the city's present and past to some of the record 5 million tourists who visited Athens in 2017.
- The City of Athens fosters innovation by creating the first municipal early stage tech incubator, Athens Digital Lab City of Athens, a research and development lab for "smart cities" digital solutions. It supports the development and maturation of applications addressing the real needs of the city, upgrades the life quality of Athenians and visitors and enhances the digital transformation of the city.
- The Athens Makerspace of the City of Athens, equipped with digital tools and machines such as laser cutters, printers, CNC router etc., offers free services and training seminars in the field of digital design and construction.

A City Redesigned

Major developments in Athens

Athens is in the grip of an exciting transformation through the creation of important cultural landmarks and innovative new urban regeneration projects to reshape the cityscape.

The Hellinikon project

The Hellinikon revitalization, the site of the old Athens International Airport, is one of the most ambitious development projects ever undertaken in Greece. This prime unexploited parcel of 6 million sqm will include a Metropolitan Park of 2 million sqm and a “prototype” city aimed to include business, research and student campuses and residential developments. It will also feature recreational and commercial uses: Attica’s largest retail mall, hotel complexes and leisure activities, and a new beach of 1km. According to estimates, Hellinikon will attract over 1 million new tourists to the region.

The National Art Gallery of Greece

The newly-redesigned home of the Greek National Art Gallery was unveiled on March 24, 2021. After eight years of renovation, the nation’s most important art museum has re-opened its doors to art enthusiasts from Athens and abroad. In its new incarnation, the National Art Gallery joins the ranks of world-class cultural spaces welcomed by Athens in the past 12 years. The National Art Gallery was founded in 1900. Today, it boasts a collection of more than 20,000 paintings, sculptures and engravings dating from post-Byzantine times to the present.

The Basil & Elise Goulandris Foundation

The newest blockbuster museum in Athens opened its doors in 2019 in the hip neighbourhood of Pagrati. The collection offers a panorama of the most important 19th and 20th century artists—including Picasso, Cezanne, Van Gogh, Monet, Degas, Pollock, Bacon, and Chagall along with two floors devoted to 20th century and contemporary Greek art.

The Arsakio Food Court

A major property lease agreement is set to transform the Arsakio arcade in the heart of central Athens into a multiplex food court and mini shopping centre, with an emphasis on traditional Greek cuisine and the Mediterranean Diet.

Knowledge & Innovation Ecosystem

The intangible value of Athens

Athens is a dynamic knowledge ecosystem with valuable intellectual capital in predominant areas of expertise that add value to events by connecting to specific clusters of academics, researchers and/or businesses. Athens offers a highly skilled and competitive workforce - graduates from Athens' world-class universities who combine global experience with an entrepreneurial mindset. With remote work now the new norm, Athens emerges as a digital nomad hub, widening the pool of talent and the overall performance of the startup ecosystem.

2020 has been a remarkably positive year for the Greek startup ecosystem. Despite the global pandemic, Greek tech companies managed not only to survive but to thrive. Greece rose nine places in the Global Competitiveness Ranking of the Global Competitiveness Yearbook of the Swiss Institute for Management Development (IMD*). Greece's competitive ranking in 2020 increased significantly and is up to the 49th place among 63 economies, from 58th in 2019. Greece has improved its position in the following indicators: Technology, Talent and Future Readiness.

The offering of a large amount of funding for startups has boosted entrepreneurship and encouraged investments in the country, mostly in the R&D field. First insights from 2021 prove that Greek Tech is booming and that the Greek startup ecosystem never looked more robust, elevating Greece as an increasingly viable world player.
